Social Science Elective Course Offerings

Why should I take an elective course in Social Science?

History / Social Science elective courses meet A-G requirements.

Elective courses count as A-G course or academic elective credits on your transcript.

All AP elective courses provide a grade bump in your grade point average (gpa).

AP World History AP European History

Both courses can be taken in place of World History (CP) or as an academic elective. These AP courses will prepare students for college course work in writing, research, reading comprehension, note taking, and time management. Both courses offer an in depth look into either World (non-Western) or European (western) History. Grades 9-10

AP Art History

AP Art History is an academic elective course (can be taken in addition to your required history courses). AP Art History will open your eyes to the rich and vibrant world of art with emphasis on historical causation and cultural influence throughout many cultures, both European and non-Western. Grades 10-12

AP Psychology

AP Psychology systematically and scientifically explores the human brain and experience. Through relevant discussion and rigorous class projects students will prepare for college course work in an inviting and engaging setting of exploration. Grades 11-12

Psychology

Psychology is an academic elective course (can be taken in addition to your required history courses). Psychology is a favorite for college bound students and students who are exploring different post-high school paths. Psychology uses class discussion and group exploration to delve into patterns of behavior preparing students for future relationships both personal and professional. Grades 11-12
